WHAT IS A DERIVATIVE?

A derivative is a word in one language (i.e., English) that came from a word in another language (i.e., Latin). The English derivative must be similar to the Latin root word in both spelling and meaning.

Example:

| Latin Root Word | English Derivatives |
|-----------------------|--|
| pater (father) | paternal (fatherly, from your father's side) |

The Latin and English words have similar spelling—pater, and similar meaning—something to do with father. However, they do not mean the exact same thing.

Nota Bene

Usually a derivative will have at least three letters that are spelled the same, though sometimes the vowels will change.

Lesson Review

A derivative must be similar to its root word in both

_____ and _____

If you find an English derivative for one of your Latin vocabulary words, write the Latin word in the left column with its English derivative(s) on the line across from it (in the right column). You will not find derivatives for every single word, but this is not a problem.

DERIVATIVES

Copy the vocabulary list below, and see how many derivatives you can find. As practice, write down the genitive and gender for all nouns.

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____
4. _____
5. _____
6. _____ herb, herbicide, herbivore, herbacious
7. _____

Nominative Pronouns

What is a pronoun?

A pronoun is a word that is used in place of a noun, like he, me, you, I, or they. Can you think of any others that are similar to these?

Those are all pronouns; however, they are probably not all nominative pronouns. A nominative pronoun is a pronoun that can be the subject of a sentence. These are—I, you, he, she, it, we, and they. So why can't other pronouns like her, me, him, us, ours, its, etc., be the subject of a sentence? Well, let's try it. Do we say "He runs" or "Him runs"? Obviously the first sentence is correct because "he" is the nominative pronoun, while "him" is a different kind of pronoun.

Here are all the nominative pronouns in Latin, with the English translations across from them:

| | Singular | Plural |
|------------|------------------------|-------------|
| 1st Person | ego—I | nos—we |
| 2nd Person | tu—you | vos—you all |
| 3rd Person | is, ea, id—he, she, it | iī—they |

Nota Bene

If you chant through these, remember to go down the first column and then down the second.

PRESENT TENSE BEING OR LINKING VERB

Last week we learned the nominative pronouns. This week we are learning a verb that these pronouns can go with—the being/linking verb. An example of this kind of verb in English is the word “is,” though there are many other forms. One way to find those other forms is to pair them with the nominative pronoun that we covered last week. What is the being verb that goes with each of these nominative pronouns?

Exemplum

He is _____

1. I _____

2. You _____

3. She _____

4. It _____

5. We _____

6. You all _____

7. They _____

What are the three different forms of the present tense being/linking verb that you wrote down?

Nota Bene

In this lesson we are only looking at the present tense, so make sure you don't put down any past tense (was, were) or future tense (will be). We will be covering those later this year.

Here are the being/linking verbs in Latin with the English translations for each.

| | Singular | Plural |
|-------------------|----------------------|---------------------|
| 1st Person | sum—(I) am | sumus—(we) are |
| 2nd Person | es—(you) are | estis—(you all) are |
| 3rd Person | est—(he, she, it) is | sunt—(they) are |

Notice that the nominative pronoun is in parentheses. This is because the word sum does not just mean am: it means I am. But you learned the Latin word for I last week. Do you remember what it was?

This means that you do not need the word ego to say “I am”, though you can use it. Both sum and ego sum mean “I am.”

LESSON 2 PENSUM

1. Write out the being/linking verb in Latin:

| | Singular | Plural |
|------------|----------|--------|
| 1st Person | | |
| 2nd Person | | |
| 3rd Person | | |

Translate into Latin

2. They are _____ You all are _____

3. I am _____ He is _____

4. Translate into English

5. sumus _____ est _____

6. es _____ sunt _____

Add the being verb that goes with each pronoun (see Lesson 1 if you need to review the nominative pronouns).

7. ego _____ iī _____

8. tu _____ vos _____

9. is _____ ea _____

10. nos _____ id _____

Nota Bene

You need to know the present tense being/linking verb for the quiz this week.

APOLLO ET DAPHNES

Exercitium

- Label any example of the present tense being/linking verb (LV) and nominative pronouns (P).

| Exempla | (LV) | (P) |
|---------|------|-----|
| | est | tu |

- Pingite fabulam!

|---|--|
| Apollo deus sagittarius est. | Apollo Cupidinem, filium Veneris, videt. |
| Apollo superbe dicit, "O puer, cur habēs arcum et sagittās? Ego sagittarius sum, sed tu puer es!" | Cupido: "Tu valde superbus es." Et Cupido duās sagittās de pharetrā sumit. |

|---|--|
| Deinde Cupido sagittam primam in Apollinem figit et sagittam secundam in nympham, nomine Daphnes, figit. | Statim Apollo nympham amat, sed ea fugit. |
| Iam Apollo paene² Daphnem capit, sed ea patrem suum videt. | Daphnes: "O pater, iuvā¹ me!" |

|--|---|
| Et subito Daphnes in arborem mutat. Arbor laurea est. | Ergo Apollo coronam de foliīs laureae habet. |
|--|---|

Footnotes

1. Manē—“stay!” and iuvā—“help!” are both singular imperatives, commands to one person. We will be reviewing this in Lesson 31. However, you will be seeing them throughout the stories till we get there, so keep an eye out for them.
2. You should recognize most of the words in this story, but if you see a word that is not in the word list, like paene, flip to Appendix F: Thesaurus Vocabulorum on p. 407 to find out that word’s meaning.
